

April 6, 2000

Dear Louis,

Congratulations! You have successfully passed the Cisco Career Certifications test requirements to become a Cisco Certified Network Associate - CCNA.

By choosing to extend your knowledge and strengthen your professional options through Cisco Career Certifications, you have joined ranks with other highly trained networking professionals. Your new status validates your level of expertise using Cisco products in the networking environment. As a Cisco Certified Network Associate, you may now use the CCNA badge on your business card (see sample below). [Visit the What's New page off of the Career Certifications web site after October 25, 1999 for more detailed information on how to download your certification badge.]

We've also created a new Web-site where you'll be able to keep your personal profile up-to-date while tracking your career path and progress in Cisco Career Certifications. Check out your information today by visiting the Tracking System located at www.cisco.com/certifications. We intend to continue to develop this site and create a community of Cisco professionals.

If you have any questions, feel free to contact Cisco Career Certifications & Training at www.cisco.com/certifications or call 1.800.829.NETS or 1.408.525.NETS (6387).

Best wishes on your continued success!

John Chambers
President & CEO
Cisco Systems, Inc.

Company ABC, Inc.

Jane Doe
Senior Council

650 555-1212
janed@abcinc.com

100 El Camino Real
Palo Alto, CA
94306-2155